Purpose

The Advisory Committee has been asked to provide input on a wide range of specific strategies, analyses, and proposed recommendations on ways to reduce greenhouse gas emissions in the state, anticipating future national and international climate change requirements. The input from the Advisory Committee will be considered in the development of the 2005 Energy Report, which will be adopted by the Energy Commission in November 2005.

Energy Commissioner James D. Boyd chairs the Advisory Committee, which includes representatives of business, major industrial and energy sectors, utilities, forestry, agriculture, local government, and environmental groups. Both Commissioner James D. Boyd and Commissioner John L. Geesman, who chairs the 2005 Integrated Energy Policy Committee, will be in attendance at the Integrated Energy Policy Report Committee workshop. Other Commissioners may also attend and participate in this workshop.
