CEC's Ivory Tower Approach Is Not Limited To Title 24

Dear Sirs and Madams

CEC's Ivory Tower Approach Is Not Limited To Title 24

For those, who have not yet read the publisher of LEDs Magazine, Maury Wright's Commentary ~California missteps with Title 20 LED lamp regulations~ in the March edition, please do.

It shows another example of CEC making arbitrary mandates, when the free market should have the right to make its own decisions, and today's educated free market is better than the ivory tower CEC.

For both Title 20 and Title 24, the CEC should get out of the way allow the free market to lead the way.

Anybody, please provide good information why the CEC's budget for Title 20 and Title 24 should not be substantially cut, and CEC staff in those departments should not be forced to get private sector jobs, where they could actually try to do some good.
