I am trying to obtain several reports out of Europe on Biogas that indicate the Germans and others are finding that production of biogas/biomethane is much more economical than trying to produce liquid fuels from biomass feedstock. DOE is trying to obtain English translations of these reports. This type of economic data (once we have the opportunity to evaluate) would support the recommendations I submitted yesterday that biogas/biomethane be included in the technology options in the Bioenergy Action Plan.

Thanks

Mike Eaves
