Chris,

I just became aware of the proposed change in Title 24 that will require PCT's in every new home or every change to existing homes. I'm strongly against this idea. Aside from the fact that I should be able to use as much power as I want... I'm paying for it; requiring PCT's to be installed will obscure price signals during peak events. This will eliminate the signals that our state utilities use to determine the justifications for new power plant construction. This will essentially reinforce electrical shortages. Do not allow this particular revision to Title 24 to pass.
