Not in 1 million years will I support the PCT Program and I will fight it until it goes back to the ridiculous idea were it started from! This is the dumbest idea I have ever heard of in my life. Is this what my tax dollars are paying for?

Under no circumstance should the government have control of one's own personal property and the environment by which it is used. This is not the solution to reduce consumer consumption of dwindling energy supplies.

We should stress solar power, the use of ETFE windows and products, green energy, biodegradable insulation, etc. This is efficient and less harmful to the environment. And is already being used today by more cutting edge-smarter architect and engineering firms World wide and it is proven to lower the dependency on the power grid.

If this is the best you can come up with then maybe I should run for office to make sure You guys don't screw up the world we are trying to build and protect.
