Are you crazy?

That's why we moved out of California in 2002 to get away from the ridiculous laws there.

Now the schools teach 5th graders about the alternate life styles and now they want to tell us when to turn on or off our thermostats and how much energy we use.

There will be a mass revolution in California if your state tries to get this going.

People, especially with kids are moving away in groves now that the law has dictated that 5th graders have been targeted by the Homosexually active adults for their schooling.

I can tell you God will punish California for the recently passed law on school kids.
