Let's get on with building the new plant; Carlsbad City Council does not represent my views on this matter. The distribution infrastructure is at that location already; only the interface needs modification. We moved to Carlsbad in part because Encina could (in theory, at least) decouple from the grid & provide power locally in an emergency.

However, until San Onofre's SONGS is all ready to go online & stay there, let's not be precipitous about decommissioning the existing Encina plant.
